LEE AT GETTYSBURG.

FITZHUGH LEE WHILE ON THE BATTLEFIELD OF GETTYSBURG WEEK BEFORE LAST STATED TO A PHILADELPHIA PRESS CORRESPONDENT THE FOLLOWING HIS OPINION OF THE BATTLE

"As I have said, Longstreet, ordered to attack at sunrise with the divisons of Hood and McLaws, made no sign of moving until 11 o'clock On the right the attack had been made according to orders, but failed because the scheme had not been carried out on the left At last, at 11 o'clock, Longstreet admits that he had orders to move to the right, but delayed, on his own responsibility His disobedience of orders in failing to march at once with his command then present many believe, lost to Lee the battle of Gettysburg With a corps commander who knew the value of time, obeyed orders with promptness and without argument Lee's movement on Meade's left could have commenced at 7 or 8 a m , with all the chances for success, and there would probably have been no combat on the 3d, for the Federal forces were then coming up in detail

"When McLaws and Hood advanced eight or nine hours afterward the conditions had changed Meade, having relinquished his design to attack from his right had been steadily strengthening his left, and his whole army was now concentrated on a splendid defensive line, for Lee had waited, as if he did not purpose to take advantage of being first prepared to fight Longstreet would have secured Round-Top a few hours earlier and would have prevented Meade from holding Little Round Top, which Meade called the key point of my position '

LONGSTREET'S VERSION

'Longstreet's two divisions made a superb record if late, when they began to fight I examined the field over which Longstreet's forces were to pass and found that troops could have been moved to be at the objective point by sunrise There were no natural difficulties of rough ground or long distance These are the details of Longstreet's failure to support his commander in a critical time The corps commander says in flat contradiction to my statement that General Lee did not utter one word to him of the march of his troops until he gave his orders at 11 o'clock for the move to the right Orders for the troops to hasten their march of the 1st were sent without even a suggestion from him but upon his announcement that he intended to fight the next day if the enemy was there, I have the fullest confidence, however, in the truth of my evidence upon this point '

Longstreet was slow and sluggish until he was engaged in battle Then he handled his troops well, but he could not move fast in an emergency Statements like this are wild nonsense and cruelly unjust 'That Lee was excited and off his balance was evident on the afternoon of the first day and he labored under that oppression until enough blood was shed to appease him " Those who know the character of Lee are amazed at the condition of mind of the writer of this as shown in portraying General Lee as a bloodthirsty savage, appeased only by the slaughter of men The intelligent and impartial critic must admit the offensive dispositions of Lee skillful He knew clearly what he wished to do 'Had I Stonewall Jackson at Gettysburg I would have won a great victory," he said after the war

PICKETT'S CHARGE A BLUNDER

'Of equal importance with the failure of the morning attack, in a discussion of this nature is of course, the responsibility for Pickett's charge It is fortunate three of General Lee's most trusted staff officers, Taylor Venable and Long, have recorded that the plan of assault involved our attack by Longstreet's whole corps supported by one-half of Hill's or all of it if he called for it Colonel Taylor, the Adjutant General of the army says it was originally intended to make the attack with Hood and McLaws reinforced by Pickett, and it was only because of the apprehensions of General Longstreet that his corps was not strong enough that Hill was called on to support him Long says the order for the assault by the whole corps was given verbally by Generally Lee in his presence and that of other officers of the army Venable states that he heard the orders given to support Pickett's attack by McLaws and Hood, and that when he called Lee's attention afterward he said, 'I know it I know it'"

PLAN OF THE ASSAULT

A master of war, such as Lee was, would not drive en masse a column of 14 000 across an open plain 1,300 or 1,400 yards, nearly every foot of it under a concentrated and converging fire of artillery, to attack an army on fortified heights of 100 000 less its two days' losses, and give his entering wedge no support Lee's object was to cut the Federal army at the left center and then destroy the right and left wings He simply gave the order to those who should carry it out He did not care whether Pickett led or Hood or McLaws These were matters of detail for the officer intrusted with the execution Longstreet was disappointed when he received the order to make this attack, and wanted to move to the Federal left, but Lee knew that his relations with Meade had been too intimate during the last two days and the relative hosts too close for such tactical folly

"Longstreet says that he took Pickett, who was to command the charge to the crest of Seminary Ridge, pointed out the direction to be taken and the point to be assaulted that 'he could see the desperate and hopeless nature of the charge,' and the cruel slaughter it would cause, that his objections to Pickett's battle had been overruled, and that the day was one of the saddest of his life, for he foresaw what his men would meet, and would gladly have given up his position rather than share the responsibility of the day Lee, on the contrary, was impatiently waiting to see Longstreet's corps and one half or all of Hill's break with the force of a tempest through the hostile lines He only wanted the muskets numerous enough to plant the victory upon his standards

MAGNIFICENT, BUT NOT WAR

Colonel E P. Alexander, the commander of a battalion of artillery of a division of the First Corps, was directed by Longstreet to station himself at a point where he could observe the effects of the great cannonade that was to prepare the way for the assault A note from Longstreet told him that if the artillery fire did not drive off the enemy or demoralize him he would prefer "he should not advise Pickett to make the charge," but that he expected him to let Pickett know when the moment arrived That the responsibility and fate of a great battle should be passed over to a lieutenant-colonel is, and always will be, a subject of grave comment When the Federal fire ceased and some of his guns limbered up, Alexander wrote Pickett "For God's sake, come quick " Pickett asked Longstreet if the time for his advance had come and the latter bowed his head He could not speak assent Nine small brigades of infantry sprang to the attack, while the divisions of Hood and McLaws, one-half of Hill's and the whole of Ewell's, stood fixed in their positions, while their comrades swept up the hill All the world knows the magnificent, yet awful, story of the annihilation of Pickett's division and of the supporting columns Lee was bitterly disappointed at the day's results He had confidently expected to hurl at least one half of his army upon the enemy, cut him in two and wheel upon the broken wings He was playing for big stakes and a decisive victory which would bring in its train peace to his people and success to his cause

"Longstreet has a great deal to say about this assault He writes that he objected to the plan that the enemy's left center should be attacked by a column composed of McLaws and Hood's Divisions reinforced by Pickett's Brigades 'I thought it would not do, that the point had been fully tested the day before by more and fresher men that the divisions of McLaws and Hood were holding a mile along the right of my line against 20 000 men would follow their withdrawal strike the flank of the assaulting column and crush it, but the column as proposed was too small, etc etc " Longstreet goes on to say that after Lee had heard his objections he changed his mind and then concluded that the divisions of Hood and McLaws could remain on the defensive line, that he would reinforce by divisions of the Third Corps and Pickett's brigades, and stated the point to which the march should be directed

'Now the extreme right was comparatively safe and Hood and McLaws could have been moved out of the lines to take part in the attack That Lee expected to see these divisions in the attacking column, but Longstreet, acting upon his own responsibility and his own line of action, held them out because he believed his idea better than that of the commander, these things seem to me proven by unimpeachable evidence " I do not know where Longstreet got this information that Lee decided to leave these divisions in the line of defense I have never been able to discover the source

All Senatorial Favorite Sons Wear Black Frock Coats

Since Senator Quay formerly launched his presidential boom he appears daily in the Senate chamber attired in a black Prince Albert coat Prior to that eventful period in his political career he was not so particular in his personal appearance, and it was not unusual to see him in business suits of various colors and texture

Now, he looks well groomed, as if he intended to go directly from the Senate chamber to an "afternoon tea " He walks with a more sprightly step and his general appearance has undergone a decided change since he declared himself to be "Pennsylvania's favorite son "

It appears to be the style for Senatorial favorite sons to affect black frock coats as soon as their boom is announced Senator Allison seldom appears in the Senate chamber now in any other attire Senator Cullom, Davis and even Senator Tillman recognize the demands of the occasion and wear a frock coat just the same as the other Presidential possibilities

The blackest hair had turned to white
On some poor, nervous fellow
But nowadays how many girls
In half a day change raven curls
To rich and golden yellow.

THE FLURRY IN SPAIN.

The Philadelphia Times said last Tuesday concerning the situation

Spain is in a terrible flurry, and if the Spanish mob had control of the issue there would be an immediate declaration of war against the United States. Unfortunately the news of the action of the United States Senate declaring overwhelmingly in favor of belligerent rights for the Cubans, became generally known in the Spanish cities on Sunday, and after enjoying the usual bull fights which are the chief amusements there on the Sabbath, a Barcelona mob of thousands paraded the streets, assailed the office of the American Consul, trampled the American flag under their feet, and gave vociferous yells in favor of immediate war against the United States

It is due to the Spanish officials to say that they exerted all the power they possessed to curb this furious mob and to prevent breaches of the peace, but it seems evident that the gore of Sunday bull fights does not satiate the average Spanish taste, and there is a general thirst among them for a flood tide of American gore It is not likely that these ebullitions will seriously affect the Spanish Government The question of war with the United States is so grave an issue that it will not be determined by street rioters

Nor will the violent eruption of the Spanish people in any degree influence the action of the United States Government The assault upon the American Consul's office and the insult of trampling the American flag on the streets of Barcelona, will not be likely to strengthen the cause of the Spanish Government with the United States Congress, but after all the issue between the two governments must be decided on the highest plane of statesmanship and with every regard to the accepted law of nations

When the South rebelled against the government in 1861 Spain rushed in with England and France to accord belligerent rights to the Confederates No complaint was made by this government, and least of all did any one think of making it a cause of war Our own government soon followed by the recognition of belligerent rights to the Confederacy It was not done by proclamation, but it was done in fact, and from the beginning of the war to the close every rule of civilized warfare was observed by both armies, with rare exceptions such as always occur in desperate conflicts The recognition of belligerent rights is founded upon the highest principles of humanity, and there can be no good reason given why belligerent rights should not be accorded to the Cubans

So far from using the acknowledgement of belligerent rights as a pretext for evading the neutrality laws accepted by the civilized governments, the recognition for the Cubans would be likely to make this government even more jealous of its reputation in maintaining the neutrality laws to the uttermost Unless Spain means to wage a war of butchery and desolation no complaint should be made against this government for according belligerent rights to the insurgents

As to war with Spain we do not regard it as probable or even possible Spain will not rush into war with the United States for the very good reason that sooner or later, and soon at the latest, she would be defeated on land and sea, and the last possession of her once grand Western empire would be wrested from her forever The declaration of war by Spain with the United States would throw scores of thousands of adventurous Americans into Cuba thoroughly armed and equipped for battle and the military power of Spain could not conquer them Indeed, the most likely result would be the swift driving of Spanish armies into the sea

Spain is weak, without credit, without prestige, without influence among the great civilized powers of the world, and a war with the United States would be the beginning of the end of the Spanish empire, that has long been tottering and now needs but a sturdy foe to overthrow it. It is reasonable to assume that Spain will not become a suicide and a war against the United States would be simply the act of self-destruction. True the recognition of belligerent rights may decide the issue between Spain and Cuba, but since Spain is driven to the choice of surrendering Cuba or prosecuting a war of assassination and utter desolation, it is simply the act of humanity to interpose as speedily as possible and let the Cubans win their independence

The Republican Break.

"The defeat in the Senate of Senator Morrill's motion," says the Balto Sun, "to take up the bill to increase tariff taxes was most significant, indicating as it does that there is an issue for which a growing fraction of the Republican party cares more than for protection to manufacturers —the party's cardinal doctrine Five Republicans, and five populists who were till recently Republicans, aided the Democrats in preventing action, with the result that the proposal of 'the father of the tariff' was beaten by a vote of 33 to 22 Silver is the rock upon which the party has split The party is no longer united Party discipline is lost Senator Morrill solemnly called the country to witness that "the Republican party is in the minority in the United States Senate "

Affairs in Washington.

Our Washington correspondent writes us as follows

The Democrats of the House are a unit in opposing the resolution censuring ambassador Bayard, because they agree with the report made by the minority of the House committee on Foreign Affairs, that Mr Bayard has done nothing to deserve censure But this is election year and fairness and justice count for nothing when the Republicans think they see a chance to make political capital However, they may find the adoption of this resolution to be a boomerang

The Democratic Congressional committee elected its old officers, Senator Faulkner of W Va , chairman, and Lawrence Gardner, of Washington, secretary, and appointed a committee of five, of which Representative Hutcheson, of Texas, was made chairman, to select members of the committee from those states which have a solid Republican delegation in Congress At the joint Congressional caucus which named the members of the campaign committee the sentiment was almost unanimous that the Democrats have more than a fighting chance to elect a majority of the next House, and the members of the campaign committee are going to work with the intention of doing so if possible

It has been claimed that a majority of the present House are members of the A P A Whether this be true I cannot say, but there is no longer any doubt that a majority of the House are dominated by the A P A This was fully proved by the fight made upon the appropriations for Catholic charitable institutions in the District of Columbia, and again this week by the vote of the House prohibiting the payment of any of the money carried by the Indian appropriation bill to Catholic Indian Schools

Democrats have known for sometime that the House tariff bill was dead, but it was not until the Senate again, this week, voted down a motion to consider the bill that the Republicans would believe it was a real sure enough legislative corpse But they have no doubts about it now Even Dingley, Czar Reed's man, who posed as its author, now admits that it is dead beyond all power of resurrection Its death in the Senate merely saved President Cleveland the trouble of vetoing it, as he would certainly have done had the Senate passed it

A Democratic rainbow is in sight, between the split of the silver and anti-silver Republicans, which has had an excellent effect upon the members of the Democratic party in Congress It has been known all along that this split would have to come, but it was not generally expected until the St Louis convention It has come now and the words used by Senators Teller and Carter on the silver side and by Senators Sherman, Morrill, Platt and Aldrich on the anti silver side were of such a nature that it is likely to be permanent, unless one or the other side makes an abject surrender, which is not likely

GENERAL FITZHUGH LEE at Carlisle in 1863, shelling the Federal barracks, and General Lee at Carlisle on Thursday last, saluting the Stars and Stripes in the presence of two thousand people (and to the knowledge of twenty five thousand visiting the Government school), is the same man, grown older and wiser, and not afraid or ashamed to say so There was not enough room in the school buildings for the people who gathered at Carlisle this week to welcome the graduates and approve the process which had converted "our foster foes" into self respecting Indians ready to become citizens West Point graduating ceremonies, in June, are held on the great plain, where there is room for everybody But February weather compelled an indoor hearing of what was one of the most dramatic incidents that has occurred since Fitzhugh Lee rode over that section of Pennsylvania —Phila Record

FARMING AND TARIFF.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Star and Sentinel, said last week under the head of "Depression in Cattle"

"They" (farmers) "understand the value of the reciprocity policy of 1890, the benefit of which to the American farmer and stock-grower was almost in calculable The repeal of that beneficent legislation is chargable to the long list of blunders committed by that in competent and disaster-bringing Democratic Congress, the Fifty-third"

The Fifty-third Congress being Democratic, that part of the quotation referring to it is, of course, politics, but the admission that reciprocity is of benefit to the farmer is a confession worthy of notice

Reciprocity, or mutual exchange, is entirely inconsistent with discriminating protection If it is advisable for our farmer to have freer trade with other countries the discrimination tariff, in favor of which the Republicans would legislate, is certainly not advisable, and therein is the harm of the Republican idea of tariff to the farmer

Thus freeness of trade is, of course, not favorable to the manufacturers who would make their gain by Government paternalism, for by that freeness of trade they would come in competition with foreign manufacturers, but the farmer is benefitted by such a condition, because his products are sold largely in foreign markets, and, it not so sold there the price is there fixed, the less restrictions there are to his trade the better We take it that our contemporary advocates this freedom of trade if it favors reciprocity.

The farmer is injured by a protective tariff in two ways, among others In the first place in the interference with his trade, in the second by his being compelled to purchase manufactured articles at a price higher than the mentioned competition would allow. He is an exporter, and the less interventions there are to his freedealing in foreign markets the better his business, he is a consumer of the products of the manufacturer to whom he pays more than a fair price. At both ends the farmer suffers under a high tariff. We would not be surprised if the fact that so often country districts are Democratic and cities Republican is due to another fact that farmers see in the Republican party an obstacle to the prosperity of their business. The remunerativeness of their occupation has been lessened that the manufacturers may be increased In so far as the farming business is concerned a high protective tariff is a mistake

THE WHEAT ALL RIGHT

Notwithstanding the entire absence of snow during the winter to protect the wheat fields, it is gratifying to learn that the growing crop seldom looked better at this season of the year The fields generally look green and flourishing are well set with a healthy growth, and it is evident that they have thus far escaped all injury whatever The month of March is, however, the most trying period for the wheat and, should the weather during the present month prove anything like favorable, the prospects are encouraging for a good crop next summer —Hanover Record

If the Record is right in its statement the condition about Hanover must have been far different from those existing in this section of the county, for with us the wheat is looking far from promising Indeed some of our farmers are contemplating turning their grain fields for other crops We have heard of corn, oats and barley as being suitable crops for the purpose, but it is hoped that the outcome of the wheat will be better than anticipated

BONDS AND FINANCES

On the subject of National Finances about which so much has been said recently especially in connection with the bond issue, and as applying also the present Republican idea of management the Phila Record says

"President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle have stated in official communications to Congress that there is no need of more revenues to meet the expenditures of the Government The House of Representatives on the other hand, has insisted upon increasing tariff taxation for the alleged purpose of saving the Treasury from threatened bankruptcy In presence of a cash balance of $140,000 000 in the public fisc subject to all demands of creditors, which position is the correct one, that of the President and the Secretary of the Treasury, or that of the Republican majority in the House? No matter how this enormous accumulation of currency may have been created, its existence in the Treasury to meet all demands demonstrates that there is no occasion to accumulate more of it by taxation Is it not manifest, then, that the plea of a Treasury deficit has been made only to increase protective duties upon the necessaries of living?

"The scandalously false rumors that public creditors are suffering from the inability of the Government to pay them is a variation only of the pseudomania propagated by the calamity organs in their partisan rage against a Democratic Administration struggling to maintain the public credit In howling over the deficit the organs have always taken care to conceal from their too credulous readers the existence of an enormous Treasury balance On the assumption that there was no money in the Treasury, because of the deficit, mendacious gossip of the clubs and saloons was not long in finding imaginary victims of the delinquency and bad faith of the Government toward its creditors To the partisan mind this fancied Government delinquency was, of course, due only to the dishonesty and stupidity of a Democratic Administration The story of the Treasury deficit in all its varied editions shows the extent to which artisan falsehood can be successfully propagated for a time among an intelligent people"

Of the 125 delegates so far elected to the St Louis Convention 61 have been instructed for McKinley 25 for Reed, 10 for Cullom, 6 for Allison, 6 for Morton, "and, adds the compiler in the New York Tribune, "granting that the Pennsylvania delegation will give a complimentary support to Mr Quay 17 are for Quay"

It is said that in many counties of the State there are contests over the election of constables It is claimed that constables elected in 1895 were chosen for three years. W H Jamison, of Shrewsbury will make the contest in York county

York's County Committee.

At the meeting of the Democratic Committee of York county, last Tuesday, Harry N Gitt was selected delegate to the National Convention, and resolutions were passed, in part as follows

"Resolved, That the Democracy of this county approve and applaud the splendid Democratic administration of Grover Cleveland, and especially the firm stand for a sound currency, tariff taxes for public service, and the dignity and honor of our country abroad, including the timely re-assertion of the Monroe doctrine in the Venezuela message That the return of business prosperity and the general employment of labor at advanced wages under Democratic administration and policies, is a sufficient answer to the baffled enemies of the Wilson tariff, who would add to the taxes of the people to enrich private monopolies instead of the public treasury * * * *

Resolved That in pursuance of the unanimous determination of the Democracy of York county, as heretofore expressed by county committee and county convention and hereby reaffirmed, the chairman of this committee is directed to select a committee of five representative Democrats of this county, to lay before the Democratic people of Adams and Cumberland our proposition, already distinctly formulated, to reform the present unequal, unjust and disastrous system of congressional nomination and to substitute therefore a congressional convention in which there shall be one delegate for every 500 or 1,000 Democratic voters Such convention is directed to carry our appeal for justice and fair dealing to the Democratic voters of our sister counties, with a certain conviction on our part, that once they understand the question, they will unite with us in doing that which is not only incontestibly right but absolutely necessary to the success of our party The committee shall address the Democratic people of Adams and Cumberland, and also the standing committees and ultimately the county conventions of those counties We rest in full confidence that the final answer of those conventions representing the people themselves after fair advice and consideration, will favor the Democratic principle of equal representation remove all causes of discord, and at the next election, redeem from the enemy this naturally strong Democratic district by an overwhelming majority

The candidates for National Delegates were Harry Gitt, of Hanover, who was supposed to have been put forward by the anti Harrity people, and Jere Carl, a retired banker, of York representing the Harrity faction The anti Harrity men were in a majority in deciding every question which came up, and were surprised and suspicious when the tellers announced the election of eight delegates for Carl and six of Gitt's men tied The convention adjourned with the eight Carl men declared elected

The ballot box was then procured and unlocked in the presence of witnesses It was seen that the Gitt ticket had received a majority of votes, and a recount, after as many committeemen as could be reached had been summoned, showed the majority to be approximately 40

At the regular meeting of Council last Tuesday evening, all the members were present Mr Troxel was elected President on motion of Mr Ertter On taking his seat he thanked the Council for the honor conferred upon him and said that Councilmen ought to represent their constituents, and ought to labor for the Borough's and the whole people's interests

The first matter taken up was that of appointments for the coming year

For Fire Marshall Calvin Gilbert was nominated by Mr Ertter, and received 8 votes

For Surveyor O D McMillan was nominated by Mr Ertter, and received 9 votes

SALARIES DEBATED AND FIXED

When this subject was taken up Mr Ertter took the floor and asked that the minutes of the sessions of the Council, when he was a member before, be read He opposed the increases which had been made in salaries and was especially opposed to "extras" Mr Stock offered the following motion

'That at the expiration of the term of the present secretary of the Board of Health the clerk of the Town Council shall serve as secretary to the Board of Health without additional compensation said clerk of Town Council to be a member of the Board of Health if deemed necessary by our attorney'

Mr Meals said the clerk (the secretary) of the Council, had much to do and enumerated some of his duties, and said the work was worth the pay $125 Mr Garvin inquired whether a reduction in the expenses of the Health officers could not be made Mr Stock said his purpose was to learn Mr Ertter was of the opinion that it ought not to be more than $75 as formerly, and called for the minutes again Mr Rupp suggested that a reduction be made in the expenses of the Board of Health and said that Mr Aughinbaugh is not getting too much

Attorney Weaver said that he was of the opinion that the Board of Health could select its own secretary, but would ask time to look into the questions, as the duties of his present office were new to him Mr Stock said he wanted to save the money paid to the secretary of the Board of Health On motion and by consent of Mr Stock, further consideration was postponed to next meeting

The Treasurer's salary remains the same on motion of Mr Stock $75

The Police salary remains the same on motion of Mr Rupp, $30 per month

Mr Rupp moved that the salary of the Street and Road Commissioner remains the same, $25 per month, carried

The Attorney s salary is $50 as last year The Janitor will get $10 per month, the same as formerly

The Burgess' pay was then taken up Mr Ertter said that when he was in the Council before it was $50, that $100 is entirely too much He moved it be reduced to $50 and "no extras" Attorney Weaver said that if the salary was fixed at the time of Mr Wible's election it could not be now reduced, Mr Stock inquired as to how that was Mr Wible said that the salary was fixed in March 1894, the same year in which he was elected in February that the $100 was paid him as salary not for room rent

Mr Stock said that people had asked him to bring this matter of the Burgess salary before the Council, and that he desired information The whole question was deferred until next meeting

Mr Garvin presented an ordinance relative to the White Alley which was adopted By this ordinance that portion of the alley from Breckenridge street to alley in rear is vacated

COMMITTEES APPOINTED

President Troxel announced the appointment of the following committees

Highway — Messrs Stock, Mayer and Lightner

Finance — Messrs Ertter Stock and Meals

Light — Messrs Garvin, Mayer and Meals

Building—Messrs Ertter, Garvin and Trostle

Property—Messrs Mayer, Garvin and Lightner

Ordinance—Messrs Garvin, Mayer and Rupp

Health — Messrs Ertter Rupp and Trostle

Mr Garvin stated that he had a communication from the authorities of the P & R R R and said that the culverts on the Chambersburg pike would be repaired He also said that some arrangements ought to be made for an alley in the rear of the properties on the north side of the pike referred to the Highway committee

An order was drawn in favor of J H Sanders & Son, for $9 22 in payment of hardware bill

PAYMENT FOR LIGHT REFUSED

The electric light bill was presented It was itemized as follows To 22 lights from Feb 1, to Mar 1, $110 to 16 lights from Feb 18 to Mar 1, $32 to 4 lights from Feb 22 to Mar 1 $6 total $148

Mr Meals said that he was still of the opinion that, as a minute, passed by the Council was on the books prohibiting payment of light bill until all lights were satisfactory this bill ought not to be paid that the lights are not satisfactory, that the Council should demand fulfillment of the contract and that the electric light people had been too long already doing as they pleased with prospects of a continuation

Mr Trostle was of the opinion that the lights ought to be paid for Mr Garvin stated that when the Council was asked to go around and inspect the lights only two members responded, which showed negligence on the part of the members It was then stated that the globes which were ordered were not frosted as they ought to be Mr Lightner said that there is considerable difference between the clear and the frosted globes

Mr Garvin moved that the bill be paid, seconded by Mr Trostle, President Troxel asked another member to take the chair and said that the lights are all up and giving satisfaction that some were not properly hung, but that Mr Hertzog said they would be remedied, that globes would be gotten He was of the opinion that the electric light company had fulfilled their part of the contract "We cannot dictate about a little flickering," he said To this Mr Rupp replied that the lights are not all right Mr Stock said that if there was a contract to make the lights satisfactory, it would have to be adhered to, whoever suffered the citizens have their rights Mr Lightner said that Mr Hoffer should be compelled to give satisfaction Mr Ertter said that large sparks flew from the lights as they are, and that globes should be provided He said that Mr Hoffer was not running the plant, but that Mr Dome, was the manager

The question being called for it was decided that the bill should not be paid

An order was drawn in favor of Wm & L Mayer for $16 74, in payment of hardware bill C Z Tawney's bond as High Constable was approved Mr Stock inquired as to the cost of the stone being crushed by the Borough, and said that a party had offered to provide stone at 80 cents per perch Mr Meals said that 80 cents was the amount a perch cost the Borough, and claimed that the crusher is a great saving, as stone had formerly cost $1 25

Mr Stock moved that the attorney draw up a notice, and a sharp one, and have it served on Mrs Gleason that she must repair the defective chimney

Mr Garvin reported the sewer on Franklin street out of repair It was referred to the Highway Committee

Mr Troxel said that he wanted to bring before the Council the matter of traveling men selling groceries in town, and referred to the injustice of charging men from our State $3 per day when those from other States paid no license whatever Mr Trostle was of the opinion that it was an unjust law The topic received some discussion but was continued until next meeting

Mr Garvin called attention to the need of a hand railing to a bridge on the Chambersburg pike, referred to Highway Committee

Mr Ertter wanted to know what the contract is with the Water Company, and was told that it was for a supply of water for $400 per year, that it was not at the plug rate

Mr Stock said that Mr McCurdy, President of the Water Company, had said to him that the company had concluded to run a line of pipes on Steinwehr avenue to Washington thence on Washington to connect with pipes already laid, and to increase the size in some places so as to give a strong supply

Mr Meals, chairman of the retiring Finance Committee, submitted a statement of the financial affairs for the past year and an estimate for the coming year both of which appear as follows

M President and Gentlemen —As chairman of the Finance Committee of the year just ended I would make a statement of the financial standing of the Borough, the condition the Borough was in at the beginning of the year past and its present condition giving you a true and accurate statement of the condition of affairs When the present retiring Council first met the financial standing of the Borough was this no money in the treasury, no revenue due and $1 500 of a floating debt, in addition to $8,000 worth of bonds outstanding with 6 months interest due We retire having paid $800 of this floating debt of 1894 built 3 substantial stone bridges, covered 3 water courses with stone, built several hundred feet of sewer, put over 700 perch of crushed stone on the streets, and leave you $500 of the debt incurred in 1894 having paid $800 of the $1 300 We leave but $500 of it for you to pay You start in with $800 less debt than we did last year You can plainly see gentlemen, that the business of last year, past, was a success financially speaking We have accumulated property in the shape of a stone crusher for the payment of which we have issued 2 Bonds of $500 each increasing the bonded debt $1 000, leaving the bonded debt $8 000, just as it was at the beginning of the year You may be curious to know how we could possibly come out in such good shape, in spite of contrary reports The crushing of our own stone was quite a help in the matter The stone costing us on the streets 80 cts per perch a saving of 45 cts on every perch being heretofore $1 25 per perch We are now prepared to produce our own street material at a greatly reduced cost and keep the money at home that we were compelled to send away the retaining of this money being quite a benefit to the laboring classes as well as our business men I forgot to mention the neat and substantial street crossings made during the year In summing up the work of the past year you can plainly see that had not the Council been encumbered with the $1 300 floating debt at the beginning we would have been able to have made all the substantial improvements we did paid for the stone crusher without using a bond, and have been but $200 behind having accumulated over $1,000 worth of property and paid all expenses of the Borough incurred during the year except the $200 just mentioned Or placing it in another way the retiring Council has saved $800 for the Borough during the last year The question may arise in your minds as to the special tax being properly used Some years ago the Council unfortunately used it to pay current expenses throwing the fund back 1 year and making it necessary to borrow the money with which to pay the bond when due and using the special tax collected during the following year to redeem the note given for payment of bond The Borough has never been able to catch up As it stands now the bond is due before the tax is collected with which to pay it consequently throwing the Borough back one year

The management of last year past has been a success even if it was stormy

Mr Minnigh read the following report of the Highway Committee

Your Honorable Body of Council of the new term We the Highway Committee report the following to the present Council as follows

1st The Highway Committee was instructed to see about an alley which has never been ordained, commencing at Robert Armor's corner, on alley, Stratton St east, to see what should be done We have examined the same and find that lots from Middle street south are only 180 feet in depth and also find that Robt Armor has appropriated of the said alley about 5 feet and that all the properties along the line to Mr Cassatt's have all been infringing on the alley about 5 ft, and that all their deeds call only for 180 ft This matter has been in the hands of the Highway Committee for some time It is therefore of long standing, and the present Council's attention is called to the same

Also, The Reading R R Co has for a long time been asked to make a pavement or a walk from their warehouse north on Washington St to alley in the rear of their premises which they have done, and as the custom has ever been that the Council or the Highway Committee have to cobble 18 inches on the street that this is necessary for the preservance of the street as they have complied with the requirements of the notice from the Council

Also That John Lower, on Carlisle and Water streets has put down a pavement to the requirements of the Borough and which was to have been cobbled as usual has not been done on account of the bad weather since the pavement has been laid We recommend as soon as possible the same be done as per agreement with said John Lower

Also That the Council have instructed the Highway Committee to provide means to abate the water from lying in the gutter fronting on the property of Peter Culp s lots on Water street, which the Highway Committee have not as yet complied with as ordered by the Council We, therefore, request that the present Council and Highway Committee take particular action in this matter as the out-going committee deem it necessary to the protection of Mr Culp's property

Another item we wish to report to the Council is that by the order of the Court Council was instructed at once to repair the Electric Railroad tracks, which the Highway Committee has partially done yet quite a length of the railroad is yet incomplete, and through bad weather and want of stone has not yet been done We recommend that the present Council and Highway Committee complete this same at their earliest to comply with the Court's orders and that the Council keep an accurate account of stone and labor, and charge the same up to the Electric R R Co's account as the former Council has done

There are quite a lot of other orders to the Highway Committee which are here unnecessary to quote We have no doubt they may be brought before your honor able body

The foregoing matters we recommend to the present Council and their Highway Committee as requiring their attention at this time Yours Respectfully,

THE BLACK LANGSHAN.

A SATISFACTORY BREED.

The best general-purpose fowl that I have had any experience with is the Black Langshan. We have tried nearly all the other popular breeds, and have been fairly successful with each, but for the coming season we have decided to make a specialty of the Langshans and keep no other chickens on the premises.

It is a common saying that pure-bred fowls are delicate, hard to raise as chicks or to be kept healthy as adults, but in this case it is a mistake. During the past five years we have kept Langshans, yarding them and keeping them separate from the rest every season in order to obtain their eggs for setting, and during that time there has been less illness among the flock, and we have raised a larger percentage of chicks hatched than ever before.

For the farmer the Langshan seems specially adapted. The chicks are healthy, thrifty little fellows, grow rapidly, and reach a fair broiling size at eight weeks of age without extra pushing. The hens are patient brooders and good mothers, the maternal instinct being so strongly developed that when several hens with their broods are put off at once, each hen tries to steal every chick she sees. And at closing up time, even when the chicks are several weeks of age, the broods have to be divided anew every night, as the hen that chucks the most persistently gets the largest share of little ones.

Since we have had the Langshans we never see poor little chicks creeping around with bleeding heads, a penalty for having ventured too near the brood of another hen. But when the mothers are so much alike and all the chicks marked the same way, it must be difficult for the hens to know their little ones apart, which, perhaps, accounts in some degree for their getting on so well together.

As layers, the Langshans can scarcely be excelled. We have kept Brown Leghorns—said to be everlasting layers—but taking them all the year round, I believe the Langshans are fully their equal in egg-production. The close, thick feathering of the Langshan—for their plumage is of the warmest and fluffiest—enables them to withstand the cold, and therefore they come nearer laying all the year round than almost any other breed. This very characteristic—their hardihood—should recommend them especially to the farmer, for it is a deplorable fact that farmers do woefully neglect their poultry in winter.

The eggs of the Langshans are of good size, brown in color, rich and well flavored. The [illegible]ls are remarkably thick, and the eggs unusually perfect in shape.

The plumage of mature birds is of a bright glossy black throughout, reflecting many brilliant iridescent hues in the sunshine. The comb, which is erect, single and well serrated, is of a glowing scarlet, and, with the bright red wattles, forms a beautiful contrast to the glistening black plumage. In appearance, richness of coloring and symmetry of form, the Langshan can easily hold its own with any of the other breeds. The cock has a proud, erect bearing, broad, full breast, and round, deep body; tail long and full feathered, carried well up. The hens have rather small heads, broad breasts, deep and full, eyes dark brown or hazel, comb straight and upright, fine in texture and bright red. They are compact in build, and weigh well to their looks. Mature birds weigh respectively—cock 10 and hen 8 lb.

As a table fowl, the Langshans can scarcely be excelled; the skin is pure white, flesh tender, juicy and of a delicious flavor. They make excellent roasts, a large, well-fatted bird being almost the size of a turkey, and with its round, shapely form, making a dish of handsome appearance. In fact, to an unusual degree, the Langshans combine the most valuable characteristics which go to make up a practically useful fowl. This means a good deal. But in the Langshan we are not disappointed.

Besides the good qualities above enumerated, the Langshans, unlike some of the other large breeds, are active in their habits. The hens when allowed to run at large take a wide range, leading their broods far afield in search of insects, grain, and fresh green vegetation, their natural food. This enables the chicks to grow off rapidly, and they develop bone and muscle at the same time with size and weight; hence they know nothing of leg weakness and are seldom troubled with gapes. They are too busy to get sick. Yet for all the hens are such active foragers, it is an easy matter to make them contented and happy in confinement.

For several years we have selected the best hens from our home flock, purchasing new males when necessary, and yarded them separately in a pretty shaded enclosure fenced with poultry netting. Here with all their wants supplied they have seemed perfectly satisfied, and it was astonishing what a number of pretty brown eggs they gave us. Being large heavy fowls, a fence of moderate height serves to restrain them, yet on the nest the hens do not seem to be clumsy and awkward as do the hens of the other breeds which are no larger or heavier. They are slow and deliberate in their motions, when sitting, stepping on and off the nest with the most careful circumspection.

In handling the different breeds, I have noticed that their dispositions are quite as different as their color. The Leghorns and Polack Spanish, for instance, are nervous and excitable, must be handled with gloves, but my good-natured Langshans would rather have me put my hands upon them than not: seem to enjoy my coming about them. If I have to lift a sitting hen from her nest, she remains quietly where I place her, only clucking a little now and then to remind me of her presence. They are the best-tempered fowls I ever saw, seem to have sense like sensible people, and behave as though they know there was no good in worrying over things.

They are so appreciative too; they give good returns for all care and attention bestowed upon them. And last but not least is the fact that the Langshans are salable. We have never raised enough purebreds yet to supply the demand right around us. They are becoming more and more popular every year, as their many good qualities become better known. — A FARMER'S DAUGHTER, in the Country Gentleman.

From Sire to Son.

As a family medicine Bacon's Celery King for the Nerves passes from sire to son as a legacy. If you have Kidney, Liver or Blood disorder do not delay, but get a free sample package of this remedy at once. If you have Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Rheumatism, etc., this grand specific will cure you. G. Frank Meals, Gettysburg; Henry Myers, Hampton; E. Taylor, Bendersville; H. R. Lower, Table Rock; C. W. Strickhouser, Mt. Zion; E. M. Stevens, Biglerville; Jas. Cunningham, Fairfield, are sole agents, and are distributing samples free to the afflicted. Large packages 50c and 25c.

Women are notoriously careless of their health—even more so than men. Much of their trouble comes from chronic constipation. That makes poor appetite, biliousness, dyspepsia, causes distress after eating, dizziness, coated tongue and sallow complexion. It's such a common thing that people are careless about it—so careless that more serious sickness ensues and frequent visits to the doctor become necessary.

It really seems strange, when the remedy is so easy, that so many people will allow themselves to remain subject to such troubles. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. That means that they are good for biliousness, sick and bilious headaches, indigestion, sour stomach, liver troubles, windy belchings, "heart-burn," flatulence and dyspepsia. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules that the merest child will take readily. They are mild, gentle, quick and efficient. They are of purely vegetable composition and work in strict accord with nature. They cause no griping and are as pleasant in their action as they are pleasant to take. Their help lasts. Therefore you don't become a slave to their use as with other pills. Once used they are always in favor. One little Pellet is a laxative, two are mildly cathartic. One Pellet taken after dinner will promote digestion and to relieve distress from over eating they are unequaled.

CAUTION.—Dr Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—it's an easy name to remember. Don't let a designing druggist talk you into "something just as good." He makes more money on the "just as good" kind. That's why he would rather sell them. That's why you had better not take them.

For a free sample (4 to 7 doses) of "Pleasant Pellets," address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

CHICAGO'S BLACK SNOW.

Prof. Willis L. Moore, of Washington, chief of the weather bureau, said recently that the black snow, which fell in Chicago a few days ago, was similiar to a fall of the same kind in January of last year, which was thoroughly investigated by the weather bureau at that time.

"Microscopic examination," said Mr. Moore, "proved that the black deposit contained about 4 per cent. of the most delicate organic structures, such as diatoms and spores, and about 96 per cent. of the finest possible inorganic matter, such as makes up the ordinary fine silt and clay soils. All this fine material is easily caught up by the dry winds whenever they exceed twenty miles per hour and is carried to great distances before it has time and opportunity to settle on the ground. It is easily brought down in large quantities by snow or rain, but is only perceived by the ordinary observer when there is a clean surface of snow for it to fall upon. Large portions of country from Nebraska southward to the gulf are covered by this fine soil, whose depth sometimes is one hundred feet. A gale of wind has been known to carry away six inches of the surface soil from a freshly cultivated field and spread it over the land a hundred miles away. The blackness is due to the fineness of the silt and not to any magnetic iron"—Sun.

THE personal property tax of Pennsylvania for 1895 will aggregate $2 500 000, of which $1,900,000 will be returned to the several counties. Thirty-six counties show a decrease of valuation of personal property of $5,696 093 80.

Aid Society, of Lebanon, Pa." had no connection whatever with the ecclesiastical body known as the United Brethren in Christ.

THE Shamokin Herald says: With its little face all aglow with pleasure, a babe floated down a creek in a raisin box at Mt. Carmel, Friday, coming from no one knows where, and landed into the arms of a kind-hearted farmer who refused to give his name, but took the little one to his home, which he said is near Elysburg. The farmer said he had one child, a daughter 23 years old, and as the infant was a boy he would adopt it.

AT a largely attended meeting of the executive committee of the Pennsylvania State Liquor League, at Williamsport, President Patterson reported that there were 15,000 speak-easies in the State, 5 000 of them in Philadelphia and 500 in the Luzerne district. He said also that there are 1,200 clubs in Philadelphia, two-thirds of which sell liquor illegally. The object of the meeting was to further the movement for amendments to the Brooks law to protect the legitimate dealers and enable a thorough enforcement of the law.

A NUMBER of Protestant clergymen in Brooklyn have united in asking that services in the cemeteries shall be discontinued because of the tax they lay upon the time and strength of the ministers. The request is not unreasonable; but viewed from a public standpoint it might, perhaps, have been put upon still stronger grounds—for instance, consideration of the public health, which is put in constant menace by graveyard ceremonies. If the doctors should join their voices with those of the pastors, as they might very well do, funeral reform in this particular would not long be delayed.—Ex.

Fully one-half of those attacked die. The great danger is in delay. The disease progresses so rapidly that the loss of a few hours in treatment is often fatal. ACKER'S ENGLISH REMEDY will cure Croup, and it should always be kept in the house for emergencies. A 25 cent bottle may save your child's life.

Three sizes: 25c, 50c, $1. All Druggists.

No Doubt About It.

How the Colonel and Cato Went Ducking on a Cold Day.

It was intensely cold, almost too cold for the ducks to be flying, but the crack of dawn saw the Colonel over at the bar, shivering in the blind of yellow reeds. A flotilla of decoys bobbed up and down in the icy blue water a few yards from the shore. "Cato," the Colonel's colored servant and armorer, was seated on the floor of the blind, hugging a Chesapeake water-spaniel close in his arms for warmth.

"Pretty cold this morning, Cato," said the Colonel, stamping.

"Yas, seh."

"Ducks seem to have gone somewhere else," remarked the Colonel, ten minutes later.

"Yas, seh."

It seemed to be growing colder. A half-hour passed.

"Fresh Pond must have been frozen over last night," said the Colonel.

"Yas, seh."

Bang! went a gun 'way up on the flats near the mouth of Gunpowder River.

"There!" remarked the Colonel, speaking to himself—"there's another jackass who hasn't sense enough to stay in the house."

"Yas, seh; that's so, seh."

Cato's tone showed no intention to be impertinent, but there was a twinkle in his eye.

"Cato," remarked the Colonel, "fetch those guns; we'd better look after that kitchen fire," looking at him sternly.

"Yas, seh," shivered Cato, 'you and me ginally agrees, if it do take some time to com' to conclusions."—Harper's Magazine.

"THE last load of coal you sent," said Mr. Slopay, with a most impressive manner, "was more than half slate." "Perhaps you may remember," retorted the coal man, with much spirit, "that you said, after you had ordered it, 'just slate this, will you?'"—Indianapolis Journal
